It is stated that the Dublin authorities contemplate arrests in Belfast and other parts of the North of Ireland. Messa. Sexton, Dillon, and O'Brien are charged with being reasonably suspected of treasonable practices. Mr. Synam, organizer of the Kings and Queens Counties and of the Westmeath Leagues. Mr. Synam, organizer of the Clara League, and Henry Egan, secretary of the Tuliamore League have been arrested and lodged in Naas jail. There are 22 persons in the Limerick hospital with bayonet wounds. A manistrate stated from the bench to-day that the police had strict orders never in future to fire a blank cartridge, but to fire with effect.
CINCINALI, Oct. IT.—Han, Ben Butterworth, in his speech before a meeting of Irishmen to give an expression of their feeling in regard to the arrest of Parnell, took the position that Parnell was in the field of debate for the lawful purpose of securing better legislation concerning the great wrongs auffered by his countrymen, and that his arrest would not hurt his cause. Resolutions were adopted advising coolness and deliberation and keeping within the lines of peaceful, unswerving resistance. The following cablegram was sent: "Ten thousand freemen in Cincinnali greet imprisoned Parnell. Let the people be cool and determined."

Rioting was renewed here to-night. The police were compelled to retreat over Carlisie bridge under a shower of stones. It is probable that troops will be called out. At Charleville, County Cork, the police were stoned. The riot act was read and the military were called out and cleared the streets. Thirty-live arrests were made. Henry E. Ewan, secretary of the Tulinnore Legaue, James Power, secretary of the Middleton Legaue, and Dennis McCarthy, poor law guardian, have been arrested. A mob of 1,500 chased a number of consables down Abbey street toward the Slove street barracks. The constables areached the barracks amid a shower of stones. The mob then returned to Sackville street and crossing the O'Connell bridge, met another body of police near Trinity College. They bunted the police down Dane street. Several streets open for repairs gave the crowd an simple supply of stones. The mob attacked the Irish Timus office, breaking the windows, and a flerward proceeded along the southern quays and smashed the windows of every huase where lights were seen. They wreaked similar vengeance on the Mail office and the Friently Brothers Club. The police were then drawn across Sackville street. The crowd fled at their advance and dispersed at midnight.

Limearck, Oct. 17.—Rioting was renewed here to-night. Three companies of the Sixty-seventh Regiment escorted Mr. Abraham, the treasurer of the Limerick Legaue, who was arrested to day, to juit. The occupants of houses atoned the police. After lodging Mr. Abraham in the jail the police again charged and fired upon the mob in High street. BIOTING RENEWED.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Pall Mail Gazette this evening anys: "As neither Mr. O'Brien or Mr. Quinn have participated in public meetings, their arrest is reaturally taken to mean that the government will tolerate no form of intimidation, however indirect. We may even infer that the castle will construe too vigorous criticism of its action as intimidation. The recent proclamation leads to the same inference. The Land League is to be suppressed foreibly. That is the long and short of the matter. The violent suppression of the League, which has never yet been declared ilegal, is only the beginning of the task which lies before the country. If the land act fails to bring even temporary peace, then Great Britain will have nothing less than to frame a wholly new system of government for Ireland. It is intolerable, even impossible, that we continue to govern by a series of spasmodic conpa de etats. Poison may be a useful drug in certain emergencies, but a nation cannot live on poison for its daily food—not even Ireland."

A large meeting of Trish sympathizers was held in Boston last night. Wendell Phillips made a flery speech denouncing Gladstone. He said Iro-land could not be subdued.

It is proposed to start a fund for the maintenance of the state prisoners. Members of the League claim that Mr. Arthur O'Connor, having been re-

The London correspondent of the Manchester
Guardion says: 'It is stated that the government, in view of the cases of the Land Leaguers who escaped to England, have consulted English and Irish law officers, who consider that any attempt to encourage intimidation from England could be made the subject of indictment."

London, Oct. 17 .- A dispatch from Rome to the Times says: "It is im saible to describe the enthusiastic cheers after the Popegave his benedicentaissastic cheers after the Pope gave his benedic-tion on the occasion of receiving the Italian pil-grims at St. Peter's Sunday. The Pope looked thin, worn, and anxious. A gang of roughs pelted the pilgrims, leaving the church of St. Vitale shouting 'down with the Vatican.'"

The Pope, in his address to the Italian pilgrims The Pope, in his address to the Italian pilgrims at St. Peter's yesterday, stated that the deplorable state of affairs placed before him the alternative of enduring continual captivity, made harder daily, or of going into exile. He therefore asked Caticolics to watch and pray for the liberty and independence of the Pope. He concluded by saying that he was no longer secure in his palace and that he was outraged in his person and dignity in a thousand ways. The gravity and earnestness of the Pope made a profound impression. He closed his address with his arms raised to Heaven, as though imploring help.

At this moment the Portsmouth Rifemen and Gregs, Captains Young and Watts, arrived and formed on the forry wharf, and their officers having been presented to those of the flaitimore Riffemens, the Portsmouth and Norfolk troops united at the head of Market Square, and received the visiting guests with military honors. The excreise of the morning being over, the troops returned through Granby and Main streets to the Market Square, where they fired a salute in honor of the day (the anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallia at York) with the precision of well-trained regulars, and then dismissed to refresh and persperse for dinner. At two oclock the line was again formed on the Square, and about three moved through Main, Fen, Church, and Holt streets to Mr. Adams' gardens, where a handsome entertainment had been served up by Mr. John Johnson. THE CONFEDERATE ACCOUNT In the Bank of England Unclaimed by the United States Government. A contemporary, in an article discuss ing the sudden rise in confederate bonds re-coutly, makes an allusion to the money belonging to the confederate government's account with the Bank of England, which, for some reason, was not withdrawn upon the collapse of the confederacy. Our contemporary is not quite correct in its statements. On the 1st day of April, 1865, the confederate government had £180,000 to its credit in the Bank of England. When the crash came the confederate cotton had disappeared, and although the United States Consul-General at Liverpool made diligent search, he could not find a hale, although he had reliable information that there were some thousand bales of confederate cot-ton in Liverpool a fortnight before. Where it went, and the manner of its disappearance, constitutes one of the most interesting chapters of the unwritten history of the late war. Why the money belonging to the confederacy was not withdrawn from the Bank of England at the time of the crash it is not easy to say. One of the reasons given is that the officer on whose check alone it could be obtained was out of London ill. And when he did return it was too late. Three attempts have been made by the Treasury Department to get this money. The first was in 1867. The American Minister, Mr. Revedy Johnson, was fold by Her Majesty's government that the money would be turned over to the United States as executor, but if the American Government claimed the assets it must be responsible for the liabilities of the confederacy. This view of the matter was not entertained by Mr. Johnson, who advised his Government of the condition upon which the money could be obtained. Mr. Boutwell, while Secretary of the Treasury, made an attempt to get the covstitutes one of the most interesting chapters of the tertained by Mr. Johnson, who advised his Government of the condition upon which the money could be obtained. Mr. Boutwell, while Secretary of the Treasury, made an attempt to get the coveted £180,000. He sent Hon. Kenneth Rayner, of North Carolina, then, as now, Solicitor of the Treasury, to London, to see if some plan could not be devised by which the Government might obtain this money without becoming responsible for the liabilities of the confederacy. But he was as unsuccessful as Mr. Johnson had been. Since Mr. Biaine has been in office he has also caused inquiry to be made, but without any results. The money will probably remain in the Bank of Engiand's vaguits until some more vigorous course than any thus far taken is adopted.—New Oricans Times.

It it also reported that Jindge Freeman, of the Post-Office Department, will soon be superseded.

It is said by friends of Jindge Tyner, who is detained at Saratoga by the illness of his wife, that he is unaware of any complaint or criticism of the manner in which he has conducted his office, and that he will be here on Fridny to respond in person to any wish the President may have in regard thereto.

THEIR ENTERTAINMENT.

The Michigan troops, who were the guests of the National Rifles, spent yesterday in looking around the city and visiting points of interest. They were taken in charge by the members of the home company and shown every attention. The hospitwere taken in charge by the members of the home company and shown every attention. The hospitable welcome which they received here and their splendid entertainment was fully appreciated, and when it is remembered that the regiment number three hundred officers and men the playing the part of host can be readily understood to be no easy task. As the visiting soldiers were to lawe in the evening boat, it was decided to start early in the afternoon, in order to make a detour through the city. At three clock the members of both organizations began to assemble at the armory, on E street. The Rifles, numbering fifty-two men in full uniform, were the first to appear in the street, headed by Pistorio's band. Then the Michigan troops began to file out in the meat blue uniforms of the State millita. Their helmets, with a metal face-simile of the Michigan cost-of-arms fastened on the front, gleamed in the smlight, and made up for any lack of color in the uniforms. There were six companies in all. The officers as well as the chaplain were mounted, and the entire regiment was preceded by the millitary band which had accompanied them from home. When the line had been formed

The line of march was continued down to the Avenue, to First street, and from there the visitors were escorted to the Sixth-street wharf, where they went aboard the boat for Yorktown. Before leaving they individually, and as a regiment, expressed their appreciation of the agreeable attention which they had received during their stay here from the National Rifles. These troops were highly commended not only for their soldierly appearance, but also for tueir gentlemantly behavior, which was in striking contrast with the uproarious conduct of some of the bodies that had passed through the city. They will return on Saturday morning and remain twenty-four hours in Washington before starting for their homes.

the British fire was most galling. The right was assigned to the Americans under Lafayette and Colonel Hamilton. The left to the French under Baron Viomenil. America's forlorn hope was led by the French Colonel G-, A detachment of the Rhode Island regiment under Captain Stephen Olney headed the storming column. The dreadful slience was broken by a neavy discharge of mus-kets. As the assailants reached the abatis one wild huzzah burst from their lines as, sword in hand, the leaders broke through the first obstruc-tions and the column, with fixed bay-onets, entered at the breach. While the pioneers were attempting to cut away the abatis, some of the eager assailants climbing through entered the ditch. Among these was Oliney, who, as some as few of his new. these was Oiney, who, as soon as a few of his men collected, forced his way between the palisades, and, loaping on the parapet, called out in a voice that rose above the din of battle, "Captain and, teaping on the parapes, called oil in a voice that rose above the din of battle, "Captain they's company form here!" Agus-shot wound in the arm; a bayonet thrust in the thigh, and another in the abdomen, from which the caul protraded, so that he was obliged to press in the intestines with one hand, while he parried the bayonets with the other, answered this first defiant shout that proclaimed the fall of Yorktown. Olney was borne from the field, but not until the regiment had mostly entered the redoubt, and he had directed them to form in order. In ten minutes after the first fire the fort was taken. The gallantry of Olney was lauded by Lafayette in general orders, and more somely recognized in a process of the state House steps at the grand reception in Boston, in turning toward the multitude he recognized his old companion-in-arms, the veteran Captain Stephen Olney, and instantly embraced and kissed him in the most affectionate manner. A thrill went through the whole assembly, while the shouts of the multitude, at first suppressed, evenced the deep feeling and proud associations it excited.
